

TEACHING RESOURCES FOR FAMILIES

Giacomo Raspadori says: “My greatest fortune was growing up next to a club that passed on educational, moral and sporting values to me.

Ekkono questions:

Why is the work on values so important for the development of a player?

The value of: Work on values

Ekkono thinks that the work on values is crucial for a player's development because it fosters character growth, resilience, and a strong sense of identity. Values such as discipline, teamwork, and respect lay the foundation for overall personal development
